The 'Atom Bank'

T is almost a year since President Eisenhower suggested: the "atom bank". Nothing has been achieved but Mr Vyshinsky caused a flutter of excitement in the United Nations by stating that the present Assembly discuss .. "International co-operation in developing the peaceful use of atomic energy." Earlier hopes of a solution to the dashed to the ground-the Berlin talks and the London conference on disarmament ended in failure. President Eisenhower was branded a warmonger by the Soviet Press and radio. and Mr Dulles' task appeared hopeless. He gave up and said that the United States Government would feel free to go ahead with the proposal with other nations and left it to Russia to join in discussions later if she so wished. September 6 President Eisenhower announced that the United States and six other countries (Britain, France, Belgium, Canada, Australia and South Africa) had agreed to go shead with enemy submarines. the formation of an international agency which spread of the new atomic

In his speech in the Steering Committee, Mr attacked Vyahinsky motion that the proposed could solve the problem of prohibition of the use of these horrible weapons. So the Communists intend to try to prevent constructive discussion when the matter the transport system cd the comes up by deliberately confusing the issue, by insisting on talking, not about the "bank plan", but about something quite debate will be shot through and through by the same old charges that the Western Powers are preventing the abolition of atomic warfare. Mr Winthrop Aldrich, United States Ambassador to Britain, warned today that Japan must be taken back into the Western society of trading nations on a fair basis.

In a speech to the New York Board of Trade, Mr Aldrich cited Japan as a reason why the United States would have to do all it could to promote a high level of world trade.

Japan, he said, should be able to earn her own living without unusual subsidies.

"To accomplish this, there must be a concerted effort in the free world to make for perhaps an additional $500,000 worth of annual Japanese exports during the next years," said Mr Aldrich.

Israel Must Wait For Armistice Commission Report U.N. DECISION

United Nations, Oct. 14.

The United Nations Security Council tonight rejected Israel's request for urgent consideration of Egypt's restrictions on Suez' Canal traffic and the selzure of an Israeli ship.

The Council heard preliminary statements by Israel's Mr Abba Eban, who said urgent consideration was necessary, and Mahmoud Azmi of Egypt who maintained the Council should await a report from the Israeli-Egyptian Mixed Armistice Commission now investigating the incident.

Two Frenchmen Win Fight For Fortune

London, Oct. 14.

Two Frenchmen today won a fight for an £11,000 fortune accumulated by a Frenchwomen during nine years as a prostitute in London.

The London High Court identified the woman - who died 10 years ago by jumping from her third floor flat in the London. West End - as Madame Lucience Pernet, legal wife of M. Louis Georges Pernet of Rue Des Quartre Cherinees, Billancourt.

M. Francois Lucien Alban of Rue Victor Basch, Vincennes, was accepted as her father and the two men were granted the administration of her estate.

MARRIED JOCKEY

The Treasury also claimed that identity papers found in her flat identified her as Reine Marie Eliza Vincent, who married George, Frederick Gibson. an English Jockey, in Marseilich in 1935.

Barnard said it was Vincent, whose birth certificate French 'law entitled' to her possessions, in fact died when only seven days old in 1912. Lucionne, acknowledged illegitimate daughter of M. Alban, married M. Pernet when she

For a moment he was afraid: not so snuch for himself as for Enid Cockburn. He suddenly felt a very strong desire to see her again and to reassure himself with his own eyes that she safe and sound and lovely as ever.

Lanning swallowed a bit hard, did his best to put his fears behind him and walked up the three stone steps to the front door of Castle Perilous.

A small notice at the side said "Knock and Ring." Being an obliging type Lanning knocked and rang: twice of each, just

Oversimplifying Leads to Disaster

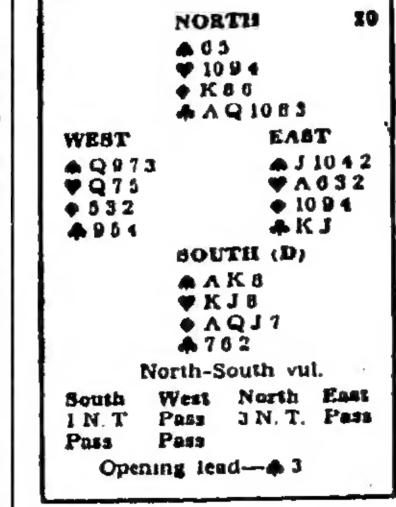

By OSWALD JACOBY

DRIDGE is really a simple Digame, but it is possible to fall into dangerous error by oversimplifying it. This point is illustrated in the discarding done by West in the hand shown today.

West opened the three of spades against the logical and well-bid contract of three notrump. East put up the ten of spades and was allowed to hold the trick. South won the spade continuation and finessed the ten of clubs, losing to East's

Increasing The Child's Ability To Concentrate

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

TRACTISING a music Whom the child goes woot to memory a poem, or solvstudying a lesson, it is a happy

It's easy for one to sit through a lecture or sermon with one's mind wandering of on one or many other things, thus hearing very little of what one is supposed to hear. Yet, all the while, one may be concentrating long and hard, only not on the matter at hand.

So with your child, when he seems not to pay attention while you are helping him with his lesson, or when his teacher at school is explaining something to the class, or he is supposed to be studying his spelling

You have often heard and read that the young child's span of attention is short. Usually it is noticeably so.

The tot, three, may in the course of three minutes examine or manipulate à dozen different objects, flitting from one to the other. But this same child also may concentrate for five or more FRENCHMAN who knows more minutes at a stretch when playabout women's faces than ing in a sand box, building with women themselves is Guy blocks, or listening to his preschool children will concentrate longer at a stretch than some older children.

We do well to encourage such concentration in the young child by providing him with proper playthings, attracting him to good play activities and reading to him often. What else can do so much to cultivate concentration in the young child as reading to him? FLOODLIGHT FOOTBALL TOO EXPENSIVE FOR DIVISION

QUICK By ARCHIE

Floodlight football is doomed so far as Third Division clubs are concerned, That is the considered opinion of Leyton Orient manager, Mr Alec Stock, one of the sanest men in football.

When his directors suggested lights at Osborne Road Stadium, Mr Stock said immediately that he would want four additional professionals on his staff to see him through the augmented programme, and, at minimum wages, that would cost the club another £3,000 a year. The idea was dropped!

Orient also had to postpone three important League matches on Saturdays; they were played before poor crowds in midweek and compensation , to the opposing clubs was heavy.

Another item of worry Third Division clubs is the poor attendances at reserve games. When Leyton Orient visited Southend recently to the London combination, hire of coach and food came to £40. The total takings at the "gate" was only £56 and Orient got a Postal Order for 15s. 6d. as their share

Tell Joins In World Realth Con Birth Control

London, Oct. 14. The humane objectives of organisations which seek to improve world health and increase food supplies may be defeated unless they are supplemented by effective birth control measures.

This warning is given by the Political and Economic Planning Group, known here as PEP, a non-political research organisation, which in a pamphlet on "Controlling Human Numbers" asserts that both death control and food control "have humane objectives which are not relinquishable. Civilisation is irrevocably committed to their furtherance.

PEP notes that a similar pressure of population "is beginning to be felt" in British Guiana and may spread to other countries of Latin America, where numbers are rapidly increasing.

"But in that Continent," the pamphlet continues, "the need for control has not yet been publicly acknowledged. When it arises, practicable solutions conforming to the teaching of the Roman Church will be sought and, we hope, provided.

PEP states that in Africa, south of the Sahara, there is as yet no serious problem "though local stresses, recognised by of death control."

It is quite impossile to say how long the demand will last. My own view is that investors probably feel that the political situation has become more stable in recent weeks. The feeling seems to be growing that there is not going to be any major trouble over Formosa and that even if the Nationalist-held islands near the mainland are invaded, the Americans are not going to make a major issue over it. In Hongkong, the tramway dispute lingers on, but the fact that utilities as a whole have apparently come back, into favour suggests that the general feeling is that there is not going to be any major union trouble. The money position continues to remain easy.

Egyptian Rice Little Crambling On Australian Stock Markets

Sydney, Oct. 14.

An analysis of the Sydney share market for the first week of September by the Australian Financial Review gives a guide, to the current economic trends and business conditions in Australia.

The Review states that the prices were approximately 20 per cent above the low level of 1952, but 25 per cent under the peak prices for 1951.

They were thus polsed between the depths of a minor recession, and the vulnerable heights of an inflation year, Maintenance of this balance is clouded by considerations of official policy on trade and credit, and by warnings that the Australian economy, although buoyant, dis under
